

CAUGHT IN A CAGE IS A CONGO BAR

For Edwin Taylor and John Archibald Wheeler

Caught in a cage is a Congo bar
Palpable gallium backbone car
The Gem-driven plot of a gin-miller's lot
Is to gingerly grab for the morning star

Think of it as a watery wave force. As a wavy water force. As a forceful wavy water. Wavy watery watery wavy salamander fishy gooey smelly brrrrrrshthihaaah shwhooshah gribidiah.

Salamander wave force watery watery water
Environment tenebrating geodesic cardgame endless salamander lubrication.

Yam manufacture
everlasting google emirate enviable efficacy
yearning gibleet tenebrating geodesic cardgame

Breakneck salamander
cupping cake worm fence apprehension
Killermeney home volatility of a fair and accurate count

Ha ma na la wonkaugh.

Shiran's giraffe.

My heart is clean. What does that mean?

And what will it be like in 5001? Will there be monkeys? Warming trends? Cinema?

The door. It opens.

Sein-Gaba.

His sweaty past lingered like a tired perfume.

She rose to the occasion like a balloon.

They waited for something not to happen.

The bird stood near the door.

The door was made of freedom.

Emblematic drivel stop

Stinky baby's middle drop

Swindle swindle little star

Now don't you go dropping your little striped lollipop

A passenger and a dog. Two travelers. Action and reaction.

Wait minute. How fast can you walk?

Wordliness of time.

Wait a minute. What is reality?

The time of an event has no unique meaning.

Hold it. Is more really less?

An explosion is an explosion.

Worldliness also locates events.

The event of your birth is unique to you and to everyone connected with you.

Events?

Proper time, wristwatch time, aging along the worldline. Worming along the age line. Wasting along world time, straight line, particle time, event time.

Caught in a cage is a Congo bar.

Active future, passive past.

Autobiography of a photon. And you are the photon.
